PRESS COMMUNIQUE.

Fort St. George, July 6, 1938
(G.O. No. 1229, F.M.)

[Rural water-supply scheme—Scope and objects explained.]

It has been brought to the notice of Government that many people are not aware of the scope and objects of the comprehensive scheme for rural water-supply introduced by Government in 1932. The Government are therefore pleased to issue the following Press Communique explaining the scope and objects of the scheme.

2. The object of the scheme is to provide a reasonably pure form of water-supply free from contamination. To achieve this object, the following forms of protected water-supply are prescribed:—

- (a) a closed well with an overhead tank and taps, or
- (a) a borewell with pumps attached, or
- (a) a connection from existing municipal water mains whenever these happen to pass through or near villages,
- (a) a protected draw-well in places where the above three types of wells cannot be undertaken,
- (a) provision for improvements and necessary protection to the existing sources of supply whether wells or tanks.

The scheme is financed entirely from Provincial Funds. The Government do not want any contribution out of contributions in the form of free labour are forthcoming, the works will be executed more promptly. The Collectors of districts are responsible for the carrying out of the policy of Government. Normally the Collectors will choose the most suitable form of protected supply among the first three types enumerated above. The Collectors are also free to choose the agency which is to execute these well works. Works may be given on contract to private agencies or the Collectors may requisition the services of the Public Works or the Industries Department or they may entrust the work to the District Road Engineers or Minor Irrigation staff of their Districts.

3. The Government propose to provide wells in order of the urgency of the need of villages for a good water-supply. They have therefore directed that priority lists should be prepared arranging the villages in the order of the urgency of their needs. The considerations that are to be borne in mind in deciding priority of need are the existence of water scarcity in the village, the distance of the nearest source of supply available, the prevalence of cholera and other water-borne diseases and the probability of the water-supply actually available. If in any rural area there is acute scarcity of water, the people concerned should bring it to the notice of the District Health Officer and the District Collector is the first instance. These officers will then examine the case on the merits and give the village an appropriate place in the order of priority. These priority lists are prepared by the District Health Officers and are to be approved by the District Collectors. The money is not paid to the district treasuries for being spent on well works. The Government have definitely given up the policy of distributing grants for rural water-supply to local bodies.

4. The scheme itself is to be spread over a period of ten years. In order that the execution of these works may not be delayed for want of funds, the Government have constituted a fund for the improvement of rural water-supply. The fund was started at the end of 1937-38 with an initial contribution of Rs. 15 lakhs. More will be paid into the fund from time to time when money becomes available. It will thus be seen that Government have made this scheme independent of the budget position or financial stringency that may prevail in any year. The Government hope that, at the end of ten years, every village in the rural areas of the Presidency will have a protected source of supply. Standards of purity applicable to urban water-supplies cannot be applied to the problem, but the system introduced by Government provides for the elimination of external contamination and as such should go a long way towards achieving success in the struggle against cholera and other waterborne epidemics and diseases.

5. There is another source from which funds for the provision of water-supply in rural areas could also be found. It is the Government of India Rural Reconstruction Grant which has been distributed among Collectors for expenditure on some kinds of beneficial work to villagers including provision of water-supply. Collectors have freedom to select localities, determine the extent of expenditure to be incurred in each locality and carry out works, through any agency they may consider suitable. There is, however, an important condition attached to the expenditure of these grants and that is that the people to be benefited by any scheme should, unlike in the case of schemes financed from the fund for the improvement of rural water-supply referred to in paragraph 4 above, ordinarily contribute a third of the cost of the works either in cash, labour or in kind.
